

FCYD Statement on Electronically-transmitted Data

The Foundation for Children and Youth with Diabetes, Inc. (FCYD) and its camping programs, FCYD Camp UTADA, have implemented the policy to not allow cellular phones at our programs. The transmission of Electronic Health Information, including continuous blood glucose readings, interfere with the medical management and safety of all campers, is included in this prohibition. The general safety of all campers is affected by these devices, with our staff distracted by parental contact for issues that have already been resolved.

FCYD fully encourages the use of all diabetes monitoring equipment. FCYD Camp UTADA is fully prepared and our staff trained to detect and treat any diabetes emergency. If you do not feel that your camper can attend a diabetes camping program without the need parent monitoring of such data and/or the parent intervening in camp programs by contacting camp staff regarding such information, we ask that you find another alternative for your child's camping needs.

The mission of FCYD is to provide a fun, safe, educational and medically supervised camping experience for children and youth with diabetes and their families.

Adopted by the FCYD Board of Trustees, February 2016